

Darrell A. Poirier
006-110-400

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This invention is a combination of software and hardware components and methodologies that enable voicespeech recognition for multiple users simultaneously. It introduces the concept of a "conversational voice log" and how voice logs are combined to represent the spoken words of a meeting or group conversations. It defines the components needed, command set for control, text output features, and usage of such a system.